Parlor Tricks: Music for a Viennese Salon

by Steven Zohn

on Saturday, May 11, 2019, at 5:00 pm at the home of Gwendoline Thornblade, at 27 Central Terrace, Auburndale/Newton, MA 02466

Steven Zohn, Professor of Music History at Temple University, will discuss Viennese musical life during the late eighteenth century in connection with a forthcoming CD by his Night Music Ensemble, containing works by Joseph Haydn, Carl Ditters von Dittersdorf, and Joseph Martin Kraus.

Excerpts of the recording will be heard in addition to some live playing on a replica of a flute from ca. 1790.

Steven Zohn is active as a musicologist and performer on historical flutes. Educated at Vassar College and Cornell University, his research on eighteenth-century music has been supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the American Philosophical Society, and the Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst.

This event will include a cold buffet , dessert, and our Austrian wine selection.
